Portal News ...

I am pleased to say we had a very successful London Art Fair last month. The fair attracted more than 25,000 visitors and we made good sales.

There was great interest in Peter Thomson's paintings which were featured on our stand, especially 'The Return of the Fauves'.

It seems that during difficult financial times people are still buying paintings for pleasure as well as investment.

Our next event is The 20/21 International Art Fair at The Royal College of Art <http://bit.ly/eCA3FZ>

Please send me an email if you would like a ticket and have not received one by next week.

I am delighted to be able to tell you that Jane Lewis has started to use pastel again after a break of some years she has produced two really fine new works which will be on show at the 20/21 fair. Jane's consummate technical skill and superb imagination come together in 'Carnival Costume I & II' and in 'Wings' the oil painting below.
